

She birthed the nyami;
she's the giver of life
and created all that we see.

The background is an abstract composition of warm, painterly textures. It features broad, horizontal brushstrokes in shades of light pink, peach, and soft orange. A prominent, bright orange circular highlight is positioned in the upper right quadrant, outlined by a delicate border of small white dots. The overall effect is soft and evocative, suggesting a sense of care and attention.

My precious baby,
will you listen to me?

I want you to know that you were
once a seed in me.

You're now in my arms,
as precious as can be.