

Ruby Red Shoes and her grandmother are going on a holiday and the first city they are visiting is Paris. Ruby is fizzing with excitement.

Ruby's chickens are upset that they're not also going to Paris. They have after all been studying French with great determination and have even given themselves new French names. But they're happy for Ruby and sing out 'au revoir' with impeccable French accents.

The airport is busy when Ruby and her grandmother arrive.

They have their tickets.
They have their passports.
They have their luggage.

And they are taking off with their favourite airline - The Flying Hare.

Over the next few days,

they see,

hear,

feel,

smell

and taste

Paris!

In her notebook, Ruby records what she sees.
