

'It's a dragon egg,' said Bunny.

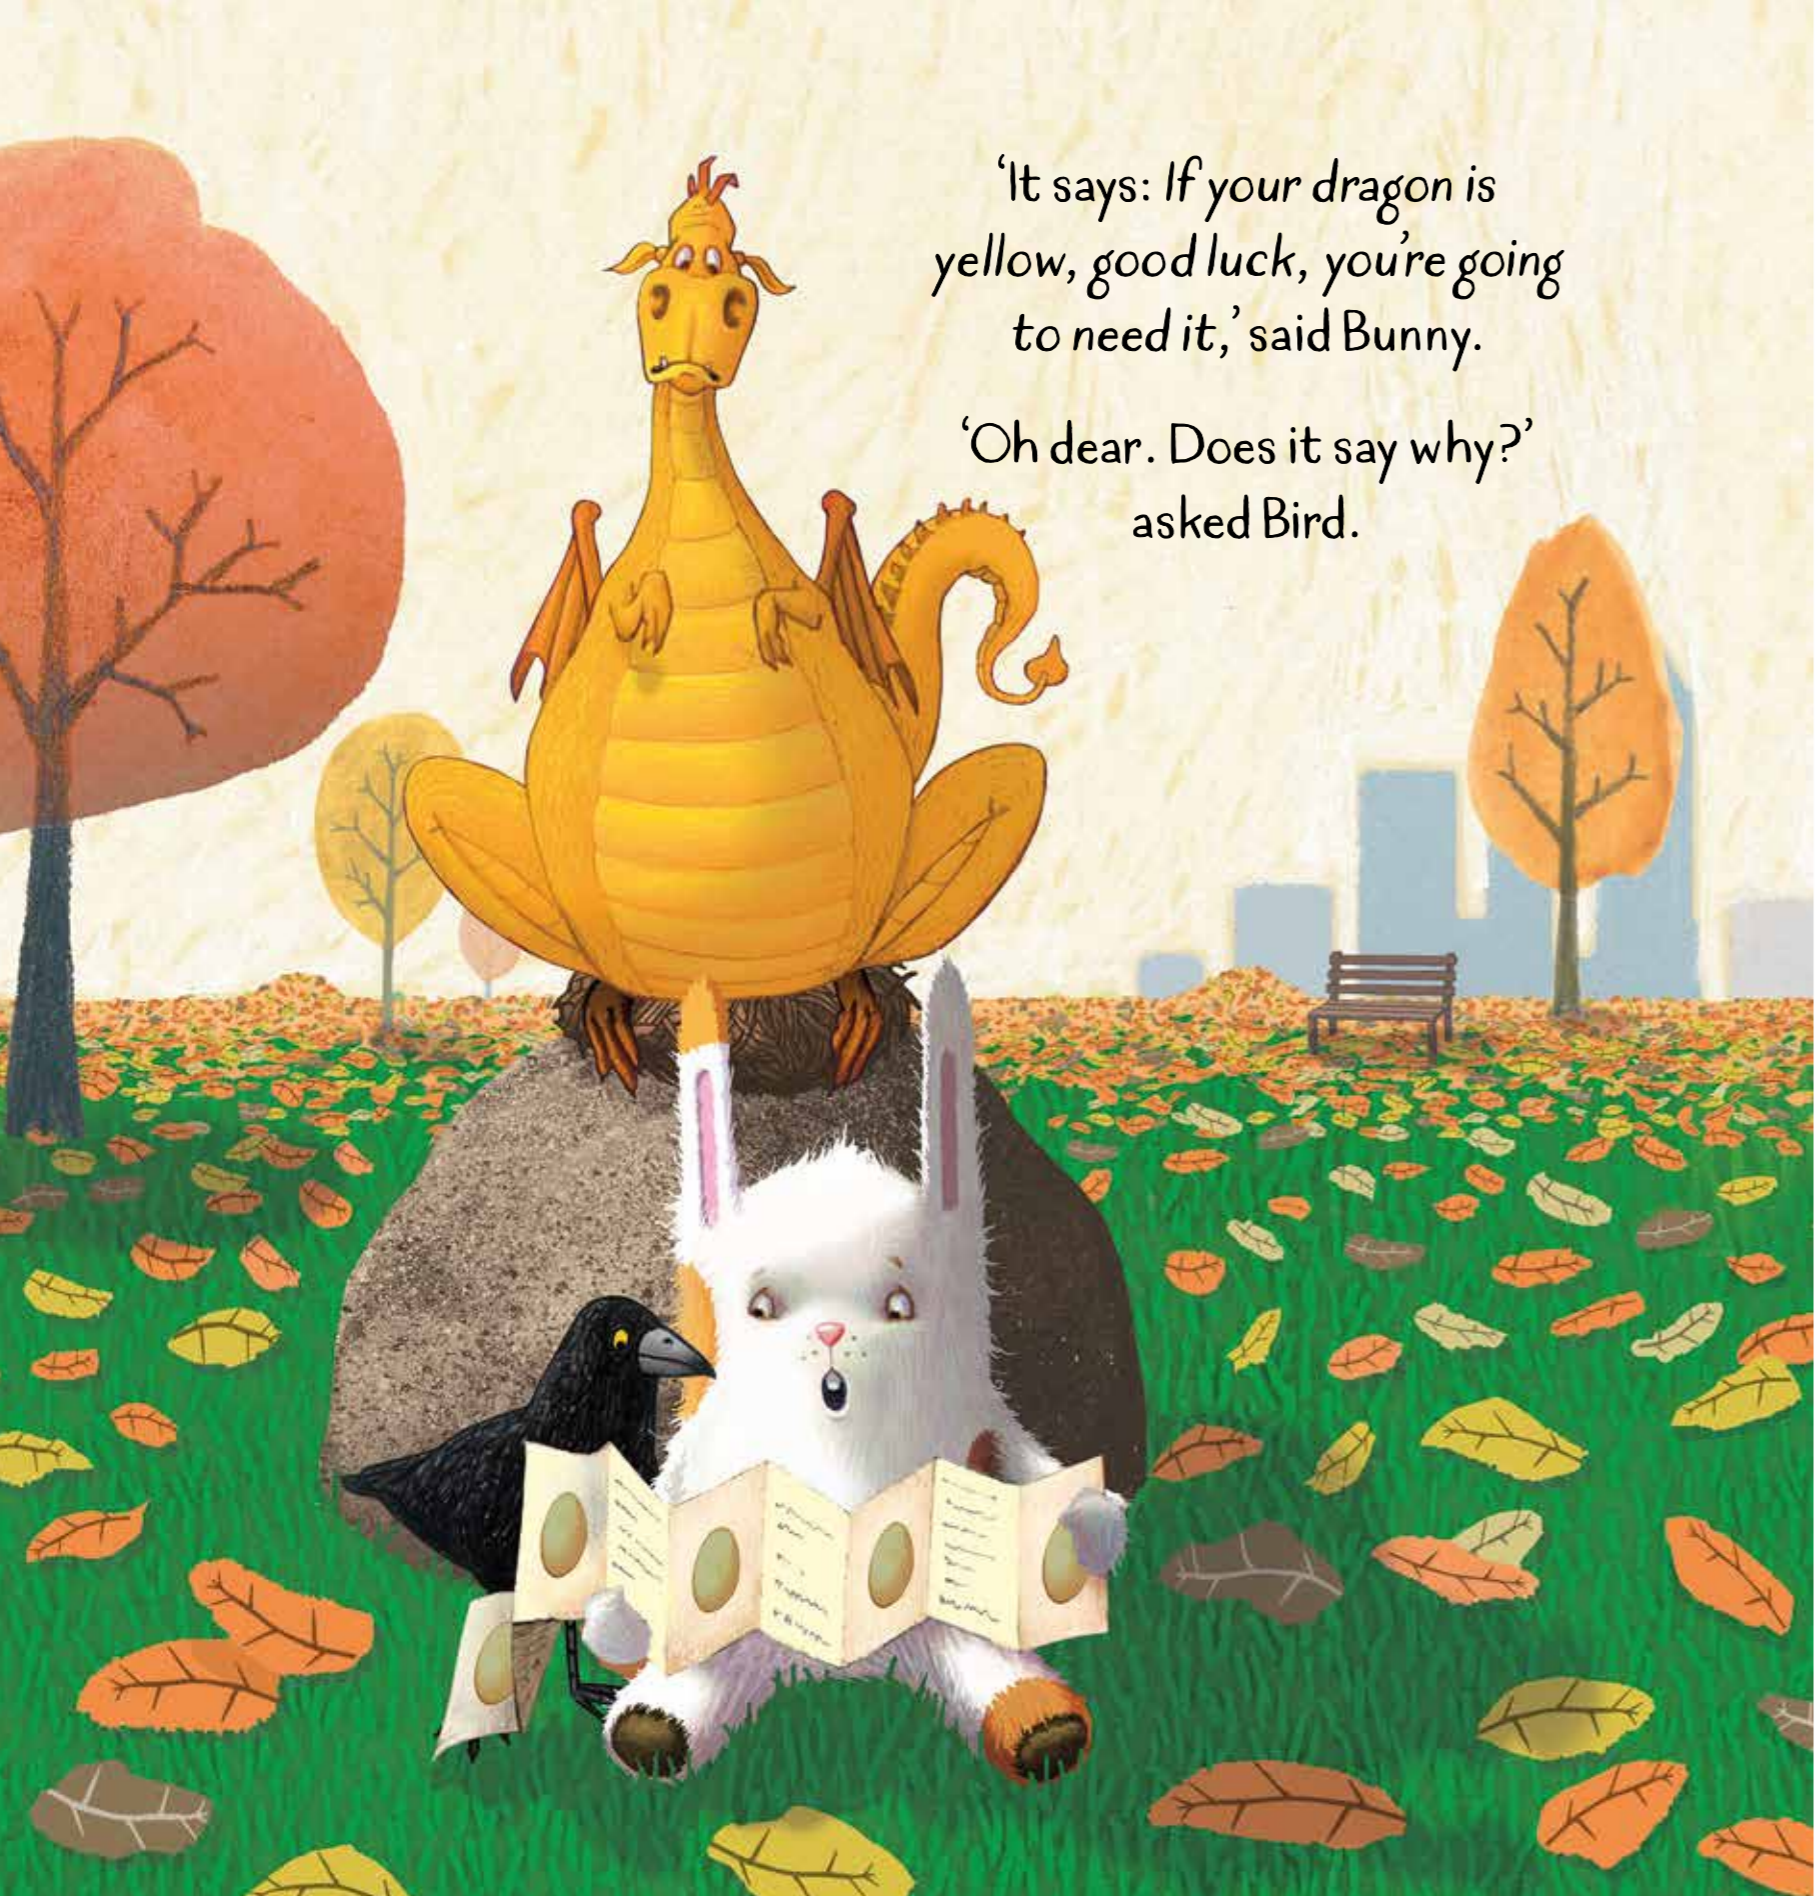

'How do you know it's a dragon egg?' asked Bird.

'Because I bought it from the dragon-egg shop,' said Bunny.
'How long until it hatches?' asked Bird.

'It says: If your dragon is yellow, good luck, you're going to need it,' said Bunny.

'Oh dear. Does it say why?' asked Bird.

'It says yellow dragons grow really, really big, really, really quickly,' said Bunny.

'How big?' asked Bird.

A whimsical illustration of a white rabbit with long ears reading a book to a black bird. They are in a field of green grass with many fallen autumn leaves in shades of orange, yellow, and brown. In the background, a large, golden-yellow dragon with a long, curled tail and wings is walking. There are stylized trees with autumn foliage and a bench in the distance.

‘Does it say what yellow dragons
like to eat?’ asked Bird.

‘It says yellow dragons like to eat wood,’ said Bunny.
